The question arose—shall we place the new shipments in storage or put them on sale at very low prices that will sell them rapidly? You have the answer.

Whenever a store earns the reputation for carrying the finest things in its line, some people assume that its prices must necessarily be high. Often it is referred to as a "high priced" place. That's the penalty a store pays for leadership.

And so-because Pushman's have earned an enviable reputation for handling the finest of Oriental Rugs some people imagine they must pay more here.

> Yet there is no store in America where Oriental Rugs of quality and character can be purchased so reasonably.

Another point which will appeal to you is the fact that the price of every rug in this store is marked in plain figures. That is the price to everyone and no one can buy it for less. So a person who knows nothing at all about Oriental Rug values can buy here as advantageously as an expert.

Pushman's Oriental Rugs

On our books today are the names of more than 14,000 people who have bought Oriental Rugs here several times. Many of them purchased every rug they own from this store. And every day people who have looked all over Chicago for Oriental Rugs, come back here to buy.

This proves that people have confidence in our rugs, and in our prices. And it proves that Pushman's values cannot be excelled.

The next time you want an Oriental Rug-look around. Go into every worth-while store in town. See what they offer in qualities and prices, and compare those values with Pushman's. We know you will never again think our prices are high. And we are confident you will follow the example of the thousands of people who buy all their rugs here.

You can buy Oriental Rugs with Confidence—at Pushman's

There was one for the Patriarch Jacob, which came up from Egypt, and the Egyptians wondered at the evidences of reverence and filial affection which came in from the hearts of the Israelites. There was mourning when Moses fell upon the Heights of Pisgah and vanished from human view. There have been mournings in the kingdoms of the earth tully when kings and princes have fallen, but never was there in the history of man such mourning as that which has accompanied this funeral procession and has gathered around the mortal remains of him who was our loved one and who now sleeps among us.

"There are gathered around the mortal remains of him who was our loved one and who now sleeps among us."

There are gathered around this temb the representatives of the army and navy, senators, independent of the government; Here, too, are all members of the government; Here, too, are all members of civic professions, with men and women from the humblest as well as the highest occupations. Here and there, too, are tears as sincers and warm as any that drop, which come from the eyes of those whose kindred and whose race have been freed from their chains by him whom they mourn as their deliverer. Far more have gased on the face of any other departed man. More races have looked on the procession for 1,600 miles or more, by night and by day, by sunlight, dawn, twilight, and by torchlight, than ever before watched the progress of a procession.

"But the great cause of this mourning is to be found in the man himself. Mr. Lincoln was no ordinary man and I believe the conviction has been growing on the nation's mind, as it certainly has been on my nown, especially in the last years of his administration, that by the hand of God he was especially singled out to guide our government; in these troublous times, and it seems to me that the hand of God may be traced in many of the events of his history.

Wausau, Wis., April 30.—If Chicago would stop sneering at Los Angeles, which the traffic and it by a materially piduced in number. In Los Angeles, where there are more auds on downton streets than there are in Chicago, and where the streets are narrower, all pedestrians must go in the same direction and at the same time as the autos; no jay-walking in the center of the block or dodging between autos and street cars is allowed. the hand of Ged may be traced in many of the events of his history.

"First, then, I recognized this in his physical education, which prepared him for enduring herculean labor in the toils of his boyhood and the labors of his manhood. God was giving him an iron frame. Next to this was his identification with the heart of the great people, understanding their feelings because he was one of them, and connected with them in their movement and life. His education was simple, a few months spent in a schoolhouse. He rend a few books, but mastered all he read. Bunyan's "Pligrim's Progress." Fables and the life of Washington were his favorites. In these we recognize the works which gave the bias to his character and which partly molded his style. His early life, with its varied struggles, joined him indissolubly to the weeping masses, and no clevation in society diminished his respect for the sons of toil. He rnew what it was to fell the tall trees.

the heart of the republic, and invigorated by the wind which swept over its prairies. He learned lessons of self-reliance which sustained him in seasons of adversity.

"You ask on what mental characteristics his greatness rested. I answer, on a quick and ready perception of facts; on a memory unusually tenscious and retentive; and on a logical turn of mind which followed sternly and unwaveringly every link in the chain of thought on any subject which he was called on to investigate. I think there have been minds more broad in their character, more comprehensive in their scope; but I doubt if ever there has been a man who could follow step by step with logical power to points which he desired to illustrate.

Tey'll tell you the way about, help of laddes, sometimes give you a hand they you lightly so to get to treat them like human beings. A pleasant word and a smile goes a long way.

FOR THE BRIDAL PARTY

For the Bride, a Frock of Chiffon, Lace and Pearls

VERITABLY a Frock rather than a Gown is the wed-V ding dress of today, so endearingly youthful in its delicacy and simplicity both of fabric and design as contrasted with the formal heavy satin of yesteryear. The choice of correct types is very generous this season.

Many Brides Will Wear Such Frocks as These

The white chiffon pictured above applies a flounce of chantilly-embroidered lace to its long, pearl-handed bodice. It is over a satin slip with hem of chiffon. As lovely is a basque effect studded with pearls and wee mirrors, its butterfly skirt alternating flanges of chiffon with pearl-embroidered panels. Too, there are charming Dresses of white lace, bouffant taffetas, white satins as simple or as elaborate as you please, and delicate white chiffons, all suitable for many occasions after the wedding.

The Bridesmaids Are Gaily Clad In Flower-printed Chiffons

MOST fortunate is the vogue of printed chiffons at this bridal season, for their delightfully blended colorings give the wedding party the clusive charm of a summer garden. The Gowns pictured are Cailot copies fashionably a-flutter with long jabots and flounces. One is over rose, the other, gold, Queen Anne satin, $75.

French Frocks Suggest Effective Wedding Parties

Three winsome Frocks of white georgette, for instance, just received from Paris, shirr narrow ribbons in maize, rose, or emerald into pointed flounces and tiny cap sleeves and form girdles of tiny French flowers in corresponding colors. Most attractive, too, are youthful French models of tucked and shirred white georgette with bright embroidery to carry out the desired color scheme. And of course plain chiffons in the loveliest of pastel blue, pink, green, orchid, yellow.

Handmade Lingerie With Exquisite Laces

WHAT lovelier could be contrived than the bridal set pictured at the left—of pure white crepe de chine, exceedingly fine, plaited in the French fashion, and trimmed lavishly with lace in a rich ecru.

White georgette and white triple voile, too, fashion lingerie of the greatest delicacy, trimmed with laces, with hand-embroidery, with dainty hand-hemstitching, both domestic and French-made.

French Ribbon Fashions A Trousseau Ceinture

In the tradition of bridal white, the Ceinture, Corsette and Ceinture Complete for this season's brides are charmingly developed in white satin ribbon, brought from Paris, or rich silk brocade fabrics, daintily trimmed with lace. Every type of figure has been considered in this attractive selection—from the narrow garter belt to the 14-inch length, $5 to $24.50.

Real lace brassieres, satin corsettes with lace tops, in white and delicate colors, and frilly garters and novelties—all these most essential costume foundations are ready for trousseau choosing.

A rather unconventional urchin wandered up on the porch and began to play with Donald, whose mother is quite fasticious as to playmates, for her small son.

"Where's he from?" mother asked Donald in an aside, and not getting a satisfactory explanation she called Donald into the house, which disgustered him entirely.

then the elevator stopped and man elbowed himself out; and, my will and better judgment, artheless irresistibly, I stepped him, to the merriment of all angers. My fringe had caught then on his coat.

Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank (of Charleston, W. Va.)

5% Farm Loan Bonds

Operating under Federal Charter No. 2 in Ohio and West Virginia

Dated May 1, 1928. Due May 1, 1985. Optional May 1, 1935.

We summarize from a letter written to us by Mr.J. B. Madison, President of The Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank

The object of this financing is to refund $827,900.00 Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank 5% Bonds, dated May 1, 1918, maturing May 1, 1938, which are optional any time after May 1, 1924, and upon which proper call notice has been given. The balance of $172,100.00 will be used to make additional farm loans.

The Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank, organized in May, 1917, holds Charter No. 2 in the Federal Farm Loan System, and has the distinction of having completed the first loan made by a Joint Stock Land Bank under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan Act. The present Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank represents a consolidation of the First Joint Stock Land Bank of Dayton, Ohio, chartered September, 1922, and the Agricultural Joint Stock Land Bank of Charleston, West Virginia, chartered October, 1922.

The Bank will continue its policy of furnishing long-time loans to the farmers in the carefully selected and restricted agricultural sections in the States of Ohio and West Virginia. This territory compares very favorably in fertility for diversified farming with the best sections of Illinois and Iowa. The Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank now has $10,448,825 farm mortgages which repesent appoximately 36% of the appraised value of the properties pledged thereunder.

With the volume of business now on the books of the Company, amounting to $10,448,825, it is firmly believed that a dividend on the basis of 10% will be maintained, in addition to placing a substantial sum each year to the surplus and reserve accounts.

MANAGEMENT

The operation of the Bank and the lending of its funds are managed by men who have been engaged in making loans in this territory for many years: Mr. J. B. Madison, President, who has been in the farm-mortgage business for eighteen years; Mr. E. A. Reid, Vice President and President of the Kanawha National Bank of Charleston, and Mr. Wm. Lohmeyer, Chairman of the Board, comprise the Executive Committee, which passes upon all applications for loans up to $10,000 in amount. All applications for amounts in excess of $10,000 must be referred to and passed upon by the Board of Directors in accordance with the present by-laws.

TAX EXEMPTIONS' In accordance with the Federal law authorizing the Federal Land Bank System, these bonds are tax exempt from Federal, state, municipal and local taxation, except inheritance taxes.
